It's been a hectic SA election season, but now we have "GW memes for The most politically active teens" to get us through it. Although we don't have any memes for you, we do have some news about lower GPA requirements for the honors program, ideas for celebrating 4/20 and a playlist that will make you wish you were at Coachella.

Presidential Peak

Last night, President Erika Feinman signed a bill that officially makes Peak Sen Chua, who won the executive presidential election, the SA's new president-elect. Chua nominated his former rival Sydney Nelson as EVP.

Clean conditions

Members of a student-run campaign to protect GW jobs met with administrators last week to demand better working conditions on behalf of custodial workers and advocate more transparency about what their jobs entail.

Science rules and rallies

The most politically active campus in the nation can't miss a protest. When scientists from around the world rally on the National Mall Saturday, some faculty and student organizations will be in the crowd.

Clarified and classified

The University Police Department has changed how it classifies crimes relating to bike thefts and possession of drugs, just in time for 4/20.

Give it 110 percent

That's how much D.C. Council's proposed program would pay District businesses for the extra cleaning and maintenance costs if they give the public free access to their restrooms. But some local business managers think the financial incentives are not worth it.

B's get (honors program) degrees...

The University honors program lowered its GPA requirement for graduation this semester to a 3.0 GPA, equivalent to a B average.

...and GW degrees get jobs

A higher percentage of graduates are landing jobs after commencement. Ninety-one percent of the Class of 2016 was employed, in graduate school or volunteering six months after graduation – an increase of four percentage points from the previous year. No pressure, Class of 2017.

From the Opinions Desk: What's in a meme?

It's no secret that school spirit isn't one of the University's selling points. But one opinions writer believes the new Facebook meme page shows school spirit in a way that's perfectly GW – creative, outspoken and relatable.

- We pay more for student health insurance plans than any other D.C. university or peer school, and one opinions writer says that needs to change.

Smashing records

Baseball steamrolled past Coppin State Tuesday in a decisive 20–7 victory to win the final midweek home matchup of the season. On their way to the win, the Colonials racked up 15 stolen bases, smashing the program record for most steals in a single game.

High on the Hill

Hillterns, listen up. The District’s largest marijuana advocacy group is giving out free joints on the corner of First Street and Constitution Avenue today. To be blunt, we’ve put together a list of festivals, smoke-ins and delivery services for you to celebrate cannabis culture on 4/20.

Namaste at the bar

If you’d rather roll out your yoga mat then roll a joint, we’ve got a yoga class for you. Find your zen this weekend on the third floor of a sports bar for yoga with a free brunch drink.

Summer vibes

Summer music festival season is upon us. Luckily, D.R.A.M.’s coming to Lisner, so you can get “Girl at Coachella” without a haze of glitter and boho outfits. For those longing to spend a weekend at a carefree music festival, jam out to our summer classics.

Hangin’ in Hammocks

The weather is warming up and students are making the most of the green space on campus. Two sophomores created GW Hammocks, a group dedicated to helping students meet new people and enjoy the outdoor spaces.

That’s all for this week.
