

Freshman Class Council

“CUBBIES”

Congratulations on taking the first step in becoming involved in the Associated Students of the University of Arizona, our student government. Since 1913, ASUA has provided a voice for university students.

The Freshman Class Council (a.k.a. “Cubbies”) is an organization within ASUA that is designed to give freshmen an opportunity to become active in the student body. Members will quickly learn the many aspects of running the student government, and all of the different areas at the university that it supports.

Cubbies participate in many campus wide events such as Homecoming, “A” Day, Intramurals, and Bear Down Camp, which all help to make connections with valuable resources around the university. The cubbies will become involved in ASUA through numerous activities such as UA late nights, working with UA student lobbyists, and planning events for the freshman class. All of these activities along with 2-3 office hours a week will help each individual become immersed within ASUA.

Involvement in the university provides a sense of community and home to many students, and the Freshman Class Council is an excellent venue for that involvement. In our members, we are looking for enthusiastic, creative students with fresh ideas and a strong desire to become involved on campus.
